Excellent choice, would recommend to my friends

Clean, well maintained, friendly staff, close to everything, great price, no frills, decent breakfast, comfortable. I would stay here again in a heartbeat. Again, VERY clean and comfortable, staff was great to us! Continental breakfast is consistently good/quick...toast, juice, muffins, coffee, fruit. Small rooms offer everything you need and not much that you dont. (fridge, safe, closet, flat tv, desk, all non smoking) If you want to check out San Fran and be right in the heart of it all for a smaller budget and just need a clean, quiet place to sleep, dont hesitate to stay at the Fusion. 5 stories, so it's easy to get up and down quick.

Impressed!

This was money very well spent. This modern hotel is located centrally, within walking distance to many interesting areas. The staff was helpful and polite, and the hotel gave a clean and hygienic impression. If visiting S.F again I will definitely stay at Hotel Fusion and I highly recommend it everyone

Nice Hotel en Downtown San Francisco.

Hi, me and my wife stayed in Hotel fusion for 7 nights, is very close to the Cable Car station, Bart and Metro line N and the street cars. (You can take the Bart from SFO Airport to the hotel, very cheap). Near to nice places like Union Square and one block of Marquet St. Is Clean, cozy, includes a little breakfast. The rooms are small but well conditioned. All the people in the hotel helps you and gives you good advices

Classy and easy for BART Riders

Just one block and a half from the Powell Street BART stop, I was glad I chose this hotel for my weekend business meeting. I'm big on using public transportation and this was a great fit. The room was clean, the bed linens were of high quality and the flat screen TV was great! The bathroom was modern and the water flow was fine. Truly 'Asian contemporary' like they say on the website. You're within walking distance of Union Square and I was glad I didn't have to rent a car.

I will come back to that hotel hundreds of times!!!

I go to SF often. I have been staying at different hotels. This hotel is the best in town for me. Location is convenient for shopping and sightseeing. Price is affordable. Rooms are clean and stylish. Staff is super nice. I have been staying in this hotel twice. I will stay there next time, too!!!

Excellent Deal

During our stay in San Francisco, we wanted to stay where all the action was in Union Square but not pay a hefty price. Hotel Fusion was a wonderful hotel; the service was great, the rooms were very clean, and we got a great deal!! We definitely recommend it to other San Francisco travelers!!

Loved HF

Went there for 8 days, very clean and comfy for the price. Hotel staff was great, and the lipton tea, that was even better lol. Will def stay again!

This hotel was a great choice, we can't believe how well we did in choosing it, especially for the price we paid. The reviews on this site helped us pick it in the end, and so glad we listened! Despite being close to the Tenderloin, you wouldn't know it, as long as you don't wander too far to the right of the hotel your fine. The location was perfect. One block from the BART and cable cars which was excellent. We also enjoyed shopping within blocks of the hotel with great stores to hand. The hotel staff couldn't have been more helpful, often providing us with information and printing details off from the internet for us. Our room was better than we had hoped for, with a large bathroom, fridge, cd player, comfy bed and air con unit. We chose not to have an Ellis Street view room to avoid noise disturbance, and had very peaceful night sleeps. The free buffet breakfast was a great bonus. There was no seating, but who cares? We just helped ourselves and ate in our room which was fine. San Francisco is an excellent city, and in our opinion we couldn't have picked a better hotel to use as our base. We have been recommending it to friends considering a trip, and would definately make it our first choice if we return to SF.

Hotel fusion is a trendy hotel that's a bit on the small side but the location makes up for it. I went with my boyfriend but if I ever go back for a girls trip, I would feel safe staying here again. There a numerous restaurants just outside and loads of shopping (FCUK and H&M are all stone throws away).

I stayed at the Hotel Fusion for 8 days taking advantage of their extended offer rates. The hotel was fantastic value for money.

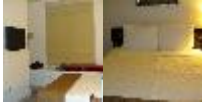

The location was perfect, the hotel was recently refurbished which meant everything was new and clean. My room was small although it had everything I needed.

I would definitely recommend this hotel for anyone looking for a small inner city hotel.

I read other reviews about this place, and their are all true. This place is excellent. The location is phenomenal, is literally one block from the Powell Station (BART) and Cable Car and two from Union Square. The personal was good, always willing to help. The room was great for the money, I stayed for 7 days and only pay for 5 because of a special, bargain. The room was spacious, clean, and modern with Flat screen LCD television. The bathroom was not so big but met my expectation. I don't think they have air conditioner, although I never need it. My room was 204, just in the front of the hotel, I don't think it was noisy, of course, will have noises of the street but not so bad. Actually you can hear the bell from the cable car, barely, it is great. The hotel is surrounded by a lot of place to eat, there is a subway just crossing the street. I, definitively, will return to Hotel Fusion if I come back to San Francisco

My husband and I stayed at Hotel Fusion for a week in March, and we could not have asked for anything more. The hotel is located, as many have said before me, a block from Union Square and is brilliant for public transport as well, less than a 5 minute walk to the infamous cable cars. The staff at the hotel were wonderful, and always on hand for anything we needed (which wasn't much!) and the internet access was brilliant - we got a cable for $2 and had no problems at all with accessing the net in our room.

Room wise, it was perfect for us, and given that my husband is 6'6, there are not many people taller, and he had no problem with anything. The rooms may not be as big as many American hotel rooms, but when compared to most European hotel rooms, it was on a par with most of them I've stayed at (having stayed in many in England, France, Holland and Belgium). We had no problem with noise what-so-ever, but we did have an inward facing room, so that could have had something to do with it. We also had no complaints about the lack of air-con, but it didn't get over 80f while we were there - I can imagine it might be a problem in the height of summer.

I cannot recommend Hotel Fusion highly enough, and would happily stay there again and recommend it to friends and family alike.

Since this is a new hotel without much of a following yet, there are some very good rates available at this time

My room was a single room. I've rarely seen a hotel in the United States offer a single room, and I applaud them for offering solo travelers an opportunity to pay only for space they're using rather than forcing them to pay for two. Some may say this room is very small, but if you're used to staying in single rooms around Europe, you'll find this room very nicely sized with a good shower large enough to turn around in.

Everything in the room was new, fresh and clean. I felt like I was the first person using it all. It was very comfortable with good heating and hot water. The bathroom had a nice line of complimentary toiletries. The room had a flat screen television of a good size and a quality clock radio. There was a basket of snacks for purchase on the desk, and unlike most mini-bar arrangements, prices were reasonable.

The included breakfast was set up in a small room two doors down from me. It was a self serve arrangement of packaged croissants, muffins etc. There was decent coffee and juices as well as a basket of oranges and sometimes apples. USA Today was available in the lobby for free. While the breakfast was nothing exciting, I wasn't expecting any breakfast at all to be included, so it was a nice convenience and money saver. I found the best way to take it was to put on my robe and go to the breakfast room and fill a plate and coffee and juice cups and take it back to my room and eat comfortably. I got some strange looks from other guests, but it didn't look like such a great idea to stand around in the small crowded room or hallway having breakfast.

The location of the hotel was superb. It was very close to Union Square, the theatres, shops and many nice restaurants. If you take the BART in from the airport, the hotel is very close to the station.

The staff at the hotel were very nice and helpful. The evening after I checked out, I returned to pick up my stored luggage. The gentleman who helped me invited me to sit down and have a cup of free coffee in the lobby, freshen up in the bathroom etc. before my overnight flight. While most hotels wouldn't refuse these things, it's unusual but nice to be offered use of the hotel's facilities after checking out.

This is not the kind of cute small San Francisco hotel with teddy bears on the beds. It is more of a functional decor, but it has a pleasant and restful appearance.

In the future I would book directly with the hotel. They say in their website they honor low rates offered on other websites.
